How to get a Retirement Pension forecast

■ Who can get a Retirement Pension forecast

You can get a Retirement Pension forecast if you are more than 4 months away from state Retirement Pension age when we process your application.

If you are within 4 months of state Retirement Pension age and you have not had a Retirement Pension claim pack, get in touch with your social security office straight away.

■ What your pension forecast will tell you

Basic Pension

This is the part of your state Retirement Pension that is based on the National Insurance (NI) contributions you pay, or are given as credits, during your working life.

Your forecast will tell you in today's money values

- the amount of Basic Pension you have earned already
- the amount of Basic Pension that you can expect at state pension age based on what you have earned already and what you might earn before you retire.

Your forecast will also tell you if there is anything you can do to improve your Basic Pension.

Additional Pension and Contracted-out Deductions (COD)

Additional Pension is the part of your pension that depends on your earnings since April 1978. It is also known as State Earnings-Related Pension Scheme (SERPS).

Some employees are contracted-out of this scheme by their employers or by a personal pension scheme. If this applies to you, we will give you more information in your pension forecast letter.

Your forecast will tell you in today's money values

- the amount of Additional Pension you have earned already
- the amount of Additional Pension you can expect at state pension age based on what you have earned already and what you might earn before you retire.

Graduated Retirement Benefit

This is the part of your pension that depends on the amount of graduated NI contributions you may have paid between 1961 and 1975 when the scheme was in operation.

Your forecast will tell you in today's money values how many units of Graduated Retirement Benefit you have and what they are worth.

If you are widowed or divorced

Your late or former spouse's NI contributions can sometimes be used to help you get a better pension.

Your forecast will tell you in today's money values the amount of pension you can expect by using your late or former spouse's NI contributions, if this will give you a better pension than using your own NI contributions.
